A Celebrated Horse Case.

Judge John Goodwin, justice of the peace of the Verde precinct, brought in the papers today, an appeal, of a case from his court, which aptly illustrates the beauties of settling a small difference through the process of law. The case is entitled P. W. Strahan vs. J. R. Kilpatrick, and briefly stated it is as follows:

About three years ago Strahan lost a horse. During the early part of this year it was found in Kilpatrick's possession and had become a great favorite with the latter's wife, a burglar horse. Strahan was informed of it and he proceeded to prove his property, and finally got possession of the animal. Kilpatrick then sent an agent to negotiate for its purchase, which resulted on an agreement to pay Strahan $100 for the animal. An order for that amount was passed and the horse turned over to Kilpatrick's agent.

When the order was presented for payment, it was found that Kilpatrick had rescinded it, hence the suit which has just been decided in favor of Strahan in Judge Goodwin's court. Kilpatrick has taken an appeal to the district court and the papers as they were turned over to the clerk of that court, today had a cost bill of $1,075 tacked on them, showing that the value of the $100 horse is rapidly appreciating.

Frank Lee's Head Y. Magazine for September

Opens with Mr. Powell's "Leaves From my Life" with portrait of Robert Southey, William Wordsworth, S. T. Coleridge, Leigh Hunt and Miss Landon. A very interesting article is "Why do Church-bells Annoy?" by Dr. Austin Pearce, Miss Doc. Oxon, which is illustrated with no less than fourteen cuts. This is appropriately followed by Belcher's translation of Schiller's "The Lady of the Bell," with three illustrations. "Dilettante Days," comes to an end in this number, which those who have followed the author in this delightful story of travel will regret. How much of the story is truth, and how much is fiction, the author has not revealed. The other serials, "The Gems she Wore," "Paulina" and "The Tapestry Room," run on interestingly. There are two views, exterior and interior, of the new St. Thomas Church at Mammoth, N. Y., and a view of a Russian Church erected in memory of Vladimir, a Russian prince and saint. The portraits of this number include Nicholas Gogol, a Russian author; Bishop Tuttle, Mrs. Leokadia Regentenko; a Bulgarian female surgeon; and the Rev. Dr. Sunderland, who married. There are numerous short articles, poems and midsummer illustrations, making up a bright and interesting number of this favorite family magazine.

Dr. Ainsworth's Resignation.

At the meeting of the republican central committee held on Wednesday, a special committee was appointed to draft appropriate resolutions on the resignation of its chairman Dr. F. K. Ainsworth. The committee reported as follows, the report being unanimously adopted.

The special committee on resignation of the chairman, respectfully report.

Whereas: Contemplated removal from the territory has rendered the resignation of Hon. F. K. Ainsworth of this central committee, a necessity and

Whereas: during his incumbency of said position, his duties have been ably and satisfactorily performed to the entire satisfaction of the committee as well as to the party, now therefore

Resolved, that in the resignation of Hon. F. K. Ainsworth as chairman of the republican central committee of Yavapai county, the central committee, loses an able and conscientious officer, and in case of removal from Arizona, the republican party of this territory will be deprived of the services of a valuable member, the medical profession of a skillful practitioner and the people a valuable citizen.

A Promising Invention.

For some time past oil miners in this city have been interested in a new invention, one of the inventors being W. W. Lind of this city, the joint inventors Messrs E. R. Lucas and Lind, which has been erroneously called a dry washer. A Journal reporter had the opportunity to see this machine, and found it very ingenious and practical. It is not a dry washer, but the inventors claim that with eighteen gallons of water per cubic yard they can work, even if the water has to be transported seventy miles they can wash gravel probably that averages $250 per ton also that if the water can be obtained at hand, 25 cents per ton can be made to pay expenses. One of these machines has just been completed and will be set to work next week, and the result of a fair test will be made public. The Journal has a full description of the machine which will be published in the issue of the 29th inst. The inventors are mechanics who have seen it believe. One machine on the same principle but without several valuable improvements has been tested in place diggers in Colorado and done more than was expected from it, and the inventors are confident that this will be more successful.—Albuquerque Journal.

Our old California friend, T. D. Saterwhite, is a candidate for county judge of Pima county. Thomas used to be a first class man when we knew him and unless the Arizona climate has demoralized him, no doubt is yet, but he grazes on the wrong side of the political fence to be elected to office in Pima county. He is a dem

The Great Experiment.

"Dan" is this the Marine Band?" "No your Highness; I think it is an itinerant German band."

What is it they are playing? The si seems strangely familiar.

"I will ascertain, your Excellency"

The Colonel started from behind the desk, where he had been leaning with graceful ease, and a few coppers were seen to pass from him to the leader.

"See they are playing 'When the Swallows Homeward Fly.'"

His Excellency (musingly)—When we swallow home made pie? There is nothing personal in it, is there Dan?"

"There is no offense in it, most gracious."

"Because Mrs. C. has made her first pie to-day. I suppose we shall have to eat it Daniel."

"I fear we shall, sire."

"Repairs will come in later. Look out for our extra.—Judge."

"The secretary of state talks war, the first assistant secretary of state talks peace, and the president says nothing. Mr. Cleveland appears to be deeply absorbed in giving Mexico a chance to back down."

That dog meat is good to the taste is known to nearly every army officer who has served on the borders. To the Sioux Indians dog meat is what turkey is to other people. They consider it a great delicacy. The animals to be eaten are kept carefully penned up and great attention is paid to their diet. They soon become very fat. When they have accumulated so much fat that their legs will no longer hold them up they are ready for the table. The Sioux Indians first skin the animal carefully and then roast him on a spit. The grease which falls from the roasting animal he catches in a wooden or bark trough, and afterward uses for gravy. On all state occasions there is a feast of dog meat, and to refuse to eat it is to offend morally a Sioux Indian.

Whenever a treaty has been made or a war waged between army officers and Sioux braves, dog meat has been passed around. Army officers who have passed through the ordeal say the flesh is by no means unpalatable. It is white and tender, and tastes very much like the flesh of a nicely roasted turkey, or perhaps more like a goose.—Chicago News.

There is employed at the St. Nicholas Hotel, Huntington, a colored boy 18 years of age, named Worrick Wright, who is quite a curiosity. Having seen a glass-plate operate in Cincinnati some time ago, he concluded to make the effort and see if he could become a uniformed attraction in some dime museum. So accordingly about two weeks ago he tackled a lamp chimney, because of its lightness, and succeeded in disposing of a considerable part of it. Having turned up the following morning in his usual excellent condition, he determined to try heavier glass and a larger quantity, and tackled a beer bottle, making quite a respectable lunch from it. This remarkable lunch was easily digested, and he did not discover any annoyance in any respect from having enveloped the peculiar repast. At present he is capable of devouring a considerable quantity of anything in the glass line, even with apparent relish. On Sunday evening last, before a large gathering of people at the St. Nicholas, he ate a lamp chimney and proved conclusively that he swallowed every bit of it.—Wheeling Register.

Children of the White House.

Quite an interesting episode recently occurred at the White House when Delegate Bean of Arizona chaperoned Mr. Barnett Walker of that territory on a visit to the President. In presenting Mr. Walker, Mr. Bean, in a quaint way stated to the President that while he, could not expect that all of his Arizona constituents should have been born in the White House, it afforded him pleasure to present one, at least, who first saw the light of day under the White House roof.

The President was much surprised and expressed his pleasure at meeting an eleven of the executive mansion. The explanation was made that Mr. Barnett Walker was a son of Mr. James Walker of Columbia, Tenn., who was the private secretary to President James K. Polk. Being a townsman and relative of Mr. Polk, he lived with his family at the White House, where his son Barnett, now past the meridian of life, was born. He is an applicant for register of the Prescott land office, and will probably secure the appointment.—Alta.

Madden Death.

Probably as much misery comes from habitual constipation as from any derangement of the functions of the body, and it is difficult to cure, for the reason that no one likes to take medicines usually prescribed. HAMBURG FIGS were prepared to obviate this difficulty, and they will be found pleasant to the taste of women and children. 25 cts. At all druggists. J. J. Mack & Co., proprietors, S. F.

A Whipple Social.

One of the most pleasant social events that has taken place at Whipple for some time was given at the residence of Max Von Beyer, Whipple Heights, on the night of the 17th inst. The reception was of an informal nature, celebrating no particular event and with no other object in view but one of pure unadulterated enjoyment. Many and varied were the sports resorted to, to while away the time though "cards" seemed to find the most ardent admirers. About half past ten an elaborate supply of refreshments, that would tickle the palate of the most fastidious epicure in the land was served and relished with the gusto known only to those who indulge in midnight feasting. Among those present were Chief Musician Metz and wife, and the Misses Emma, Lizzie and Sophia Metz, Chief Clerk Nunes, C. H. Allabach chief printer, Messrs Pettis, Uthoff, Carlin, Jenkins, Bourke, Hunter and others. About 12 o'clock the guests departed to their respective homes with the impression indelibly stamped on the memories that as a caterer to the wants of his friends Mr. Beyer is certainly no novice, and with the hope we would be long, have the pleasure of again assembling around his festive board.

Aware of the Experiment.

The Artee cattle company made a shipment of cattle recently to Kansas city in the new Burton feeding and watering cars making the quickest live stock run on record. The actual running from Albuquerque to Kansas City was forty-five hours on the 918 miles. The cars were liberally supplied with water twice daily, from the railroad tanks, consuming but four minutes to the car, at each watering. They were fed hay while the train was running at full speed, and consumed 66,000 pounds of hay on the trip. The steers ate and drank freely and lay down in the cars and chewed their cud contentedly. They were taken through the entire distance without unloading, and reached the Kansas City stock yards in the finest condition Arizona cattle ever received. Not an animal being bruised or diminished. This shipment demonstrates fully that wild range cattle can be profitably transported long distances in the Burton feeding and watering cars. The fat steers cut and drink freely, thereby saving shrinkage in transit. Having no delays to feed and water, they gain much time in transit over the common cars and arrive at market food and in condition for healthy human food. This test shipment was watched with great interest by stockmen and transportation companies.—Albuquerque Journal.

A Gloomy View.

The Washington Star reports a democratic congressman as expressing himself in this manner regarding the outlook for his party: It looks to me as if things were all at sixes and sevens with the democrats. The people are showing things up pretty generally at all the conventions, and it is hard to tell how the party is going to come out in my district. I am being fought because I am not a very warm supporter of the administration. Cox, of North Carolina, a very good man was cut off by his people because he was friendly to the president Wilson, of West Virginia is being fought on both sides—because he was and because he wasn't. Snyder, of the same state, is having such a fight made on him that there is said to be great danger that a republican may be elected in his district. An endorsement of the administration by the Indiana and Tennessee conventions was very guarded and equivocal. The order of the president that office holders shall take no part in the conventions is playing the mischief with us. Now they are afraid to do anything. They are tied up and shelved. Those who didn't get office are fighting us. The devil is to pay. Men holding office are threatened constantly that if they go into convention off will go their heads. Oleomargarine is hurting us, and I don't know what is not. Here's Hedden turned out because he appointed a few democrats."

From Monday's Daily.

The mining outlook for this section looks more promising at the present time than it has for several years. A number of important sales have been made recently, and several others are under negotiation.

The Holbrook Critic says scurvy fever is said to be raging at Taylor and Snow Flake in Apache county—old and young are alike subject to attack. Many children are dying.

Tax payers of Apache county are warned not to pay taxes to D. Baca, the old treasurer as the board of supervisors have appointed another man. It is barely possible that they will use this as an excuse not to pay them in a hurry.

Nearly two thousand people receive their mail by the Wickenburg stage and yet the government in its false economy has cut the service down to twice a week. They should have at least a tri weekly mail service.

Referring to the tendency of excessive drinking of water and other beverages in hot weather, a medical authority says: "Do not abstain from drinking, but drink slowly, so as to allow time for the voice of nature to cry enough." There is no drink so good as pure water. For the sake of flavor and because vegetables are useful, a dash of lemon juice may be added with advantage. The skin should be kept fairly cool, so that a sufficient quantity of the fluid taken may pass off by the kidneys.

What Young Ladies Should Do.

Do be natural. A poor diamond is better than a good imitation.

Do try to be accurate, not only for your own sake, but for the sake of your sex. The incapacity of the female mind for accuracy is a standard argument against the equality of the sexes.

Do observe. The faculty of observation, well cultivated, makes practical men and women.

Do try to be sensible, it is not a particular sign of superiority to talk like a fool.

Do be ready in time for church; if you do not respect yourself sufficiently to be punctual, respect the feelings of other people. Do avoid causes of irritation in your family circle; reflect that home is the place to be agreeable.

Do be reticent; the world at large has no interest in your private affairs.

Do cultivate the habit of listening to others; it will make you an invaluable member of society, to say nothing of advantages it will be to you when you marry; every man likes to talk about himself; a good listener makes a good wife.

Do be contented; "naysayers" are detestable; a cheerful, happy spirit is infectious; you can carry it about with you like a sunny atmosphere.

Do avoid whispering; it was bad as gossiping. Both are to be condemned; there is no excuse for either one of them if you have anything to say, say it; if you have not, do hold your tongue altogether. Silence is golden.

Do be truthful; do avoid exaggeration. If you mean a mile say a mile not a mile and a half. If you mean one say one, and not a dozen.

Do, sometimes, at least, allow your mother to know better than you do. She was educated before you were born.—Exchange.

A Sensational Theory.

A prominent Texas state official gives the following sensational and inside facts of the Mexican international trouble. He says that the matter is kept alive almost entirely by Governor Trebino, General Navarro, and a group of wealthy followers. They do not exceed twenty persons, but they have long wielded an irresistible influence in the northern states of Mexico. Both ex-President Gonzalez and President Diaz sought and held a friendly syndicate with them, and to that end Trebino made Navarro secretary of war. Each managed while holding the office to secure a vast amount of government lands in the northern districts. While the lands are a part of Mexico and subject to the uncertainties of Mexican upheavals, are only worth fifteen cents per acre, and the poorer lands, immediately across the border into the United States bring $4 an acre. By changing the boundary to the Sierra Madre mountains it will enhance the interests of the syndicate from ten to twenty million dollars, and the cutting of the bridge is a fortunate accident for them.
